1 CPE credits are available for completion of this program.

This session will explore the complex and far reaching aspects of the Affordable Care Act and its shifting impact on the medical professional liability industry. Specific risks such as demand surge, electronic medical records, greater institutional accountability and evidence based medicine will be explored. Along with the Affordable Care Act, various types of regulatory and administrative healthcare provider audits will be discuss with primary focus on Medicare and Medicaid RAC audits.

The goal of this session is to provide the audience with an overview of the evolving liability issues surrounding the Affordable Care Act and risks associated with Medicare/Medicaid RAC audits of healthcare providers.

After completing this course you will be able to:

- Illustrate the evolution of the Affordable Care Act and the far reaching implications for the medical professional liability industry
- Identify the various regulatory and administrative healthcare provider audits
- Evaluate the current status of the implementation of the Affordable Care Act and RAC audits
- Articulate how the risks discussed impact individual RRGs and PGs in the medical professional liability industry
