The RRG industry is a significant purchaser of reinsurance. This panel of experts will examine the trends with respect to global capacity, sources of capital, regulation, distribution, exposure aggregation, the influence of DFA and ERM, Credit for reinsurance, the role of RRG's in reinsurance and other issues.

The goal of this session is to provide the audience with an overview of the trends in the reinsurance industry and examine the impact of those on the provision of reinsurance to risk retention groups, risk purchasing groups and captives over the next 5 year.

After completing this course you will be able to:

- Describe the key trends in the reinsurance industry which impact risk retention groups, risk purchasing groups and captives
- Describe the role of RRG's in reinsurance
- Explain the different perspectives on this topic from the range of experts, covering insurance company analytics (rating agency), the legal/legislative environment and actuarial pricing and exposure management.
