.5 CPE credits are available for completion of this program.

The session will be an opportunity for NRRA members to understand the evolving issues in the E&O and D&O areas of insurance. They will cover recent claims trends and the impact this has had on underwriting appetite, as well as covering emerging issues presented by the various changes in legislation and what impact they may have on these coverages. The session will also talk to new areas of exposure which has not traditionally been covered by the standard policies.

The goal of this session is to provide NRRA members with an overview of the hot topics that is preoccupying E&O and D&O insurers and give the members cause for thought on their approaches to underwriting.

After completing this course you will be able to:

- Illustrate the hot topics in the E&O/D&O world and the challenges these present
- Describe areas and how they might present challenges or opportunity to their RRGs
- Enable them to better educate their underwriting staff with respect to key things to look for in their underwriting processes.
